

The Cosmology of Axis Mundi - The True Motion of Earth and her Axis & The Geometry-in-Motion

December 2015 by Stefan Sattler

Think of Earth' motion in the following way:

- 1.) Earth' basic motion around the Sun like the motion of the Moon around Earth (one side always facing Earth, so-called phase-locked or tidally locked to the Earth), and then
- 2.) Add to it a 24-hour rotation CCW and
- 3.) A daily Axis Angle Direction Forward Ticking Clockwise, a little less than 1° per day.

True Motion of Earth and her Axis - Cosmologia Axis Mundi

Like the Moon rotates around the Earth with always the same side facing the Earth. Imagine Earth is doing her rotation around the Sun in the same way. Add the motion that you think of as Earth' Wobble; like what you think is causing the Precession of the Equinox; clockwise, to the right. Add the daily rotation around herself counterclockwise. The first two motions are seemingly annihilating each other so that it seems that Earth' Axis is always fixed and pointing into the same direction in outer space.

Earth is orbiting the sun and imagine the axis is tilted at $23,4^\circ$ (In fact it's $66,6^\circ$! $90^\circ - 23,4^\circ = 66,6^\circ$ - here you have your famous „Number of the Beast“!) to the sun while the axis is always pointing to the sun, the center of that motion pattern. Obviously, it is not doing this, because if it did so, there would be summer all year on the north side of the earth. Now ask yourself: What force is pushing the axis (tilting-angle-direction) per quarter year an additional 90° to the right, meaning clockwise, so that it is as can be observed in reality?

As I explained there are two different kinds of motion responsible for it. These two movements are seemingly annihilating each other. That's why we obviously never really thought about it. We just never recognized that we don't have a sufficient explanation for our own Earth' (Axis') movement because it seems to be fix! That movement is what I've called the Syrian Dance. It's the kind of movement we think of when we describe the so-called Wobble of the Earth which leads to what is called the Precession of the Equinox.

So then, what makes the Precession of the Equinox? Well, it's the same phenomenon and mechanics: The Sun and the whole Solar-System is phase-locked/tidally locked to its Greater Star which our Sun is revolving around, too! Whether that is Alcyone, which some say is Tara and not Alcyone at all, or any other star doesn't matter for right now for we first have to understand the basic mechanical principle and then we can apply this to the actual stars further out. We know Earth is doing a revolution around the sun and the rotation around itself, ok. But what we didn't understand until now is why the Earth Axis and her 'tilting-angle-direction' is seemingly fixed to a certain direction in space. I know science is telling you it is because of inertia but in fact there is no such kind of inertia!

And what actually is the so-called Sidereal Day? There seems to be a misunderstanding. One full rotation of Earth around herself is not 23 56 hours as currently claimed by official science! That would be the so-called misunderstood Sidereal Day, which is not a full rotation. Sidereal Day just means the same relative position of the stars at 23 56 o' clock as in the night at midnight the day before; but that doesn't mean a full rotation is 23 hours and 56 minutes long. Not a real full rotation around Earth' own axis.

It just means that after 23 56 hours the night sky is relatively in the same position as in the night at midnight before. And that's because these nearly 4 minutes early is equalizing the wandering and the changing of the relative position of Earth towards the stars and planets throughout one day on her way around the sun. You see, Earth is wandering 1/365 every day including the 'curving'. By curving or ticking I mean the tiny little movement which is necessary to adjust (and rotate inward) so that always the same side would face the sun! Like the moon is doing, which I explained above, so that the way you see the stars at 23 56 o'clock is in the same relative position and direction as at midnight the day before. And at midnight, it has slightly changed. Like the clock ticking further one step every day.

Meaning the real, actual own rotational period of Earth is 24 hours! Meaning the current model is close to reality but not what actually happens. The mark at 23 56 o'clock would be more precisely called the Sidereal Point. And it surely has the same duration. 24 hours from one sidereal point to the next and not 23 hours plus 56 minutes, that is a false assumption! Full rotation is 24 hours and being 24 hours, the explanation with inertia doesn't add up, like I explained, because sunrise would be every day 4 minutes later! Extrapolate that to one full wandering of sunrise around the 'clock' in one year and it becomes obvious: Sunrise is not 4 minutes later every day but going forth and back throughout summer and winter. If it really were as suggested, the sunrise would not be like earlier in summer and later in winter, in relation to the northern hemisphere, opposite for the southern one, but the sunrise would kind of 'travel around the day' throughout one year. Meaning you would have sunrise at 6 h, three months later at 12 h, three months later at 18 h and three months later at 24 h, and three months later at 6 h again! Obviously, that's not the case but instead the sunrise goes back and forth.

Now, when you do assume Earth' own rotational period would be just 23 56 hours, as the current false official model suggests, one is able to create a close model to reality to what happens out there but one needs to introduce the ellipse to make it look satisfyingly correct. But it is not and never was fully correct, as the understanding of the basic motion of Earth and its Axis was incorrect. Thus, when you calculate our position according to the motions I describe, The Syrian Dance, The Wobble of Earth' Axis clockwise and Earth being kind of phase-locked to the sun, then you will find: The coordinates will match the true observed positions and angles of Earth towards the sun and the stars perfectly without the need to introduce an ellipse. Anyway, that is not the important point in my presentation. Ellipse or not, understanding the basic motion is of utmost importance to our understanding of Planetary Mechanics.

Retrograde Running Planets & How to Rotate the Moon

So, now we are able to explain what so-called Pole Switches and Pole Flips have been in the past, and what not. It's not that the field suddenly flips over while Earth, the material globe itself, is staying and moving the same, but it's about the axis again. When the tilting gets bigger and bigger and the angle is increasing more and more to become nearly 90°, not straight up but down, like the North Pole is pointing more and more to the Sun while Earth is spinning, there will be a moment when it flips over and the Geographical North Pole, meaning the actual physical tip of the sphere, goes over the Equatorial Line of the Solar System, turning the sphere up-side-down. Probably that would be accompanied by a lot of catastrophes and cataclysms. Now, the field and the direction of the flow of the sun and of the Solar System will stay the same as before but because the Earth is now upside down, the flow will be received and imprinted in the opposite direction.

So, the field has not changed but the Earth has flipped and thus we find these different directions of magnetic flows indicated in different geological sediments. That is what has happened to Venus (and many other planets), that's why Venus is running retrograde. Meaning its rotational direction is against its revolutionary direction around the sun. Venus is spinning clockwise, while she is going around the sun counterclockwise. Now understanding this will bring us to the next possible option of understanding that it is possible to start to rotate the moon, again (?), and bring new life to our sister planet.

We could either think about doing it with technics by creating a field on the moon, which then will bring in the plasma, et voila, we will be able to create water, energy, atmosphere, etc. which itself will strengthen the field and the atmosphere even more so that the interference and resonance between the Earth and the Moon grows stronger until the point where we will have resonance which is nothing else as communication of forces! Even easier is it when all this happens while the Earth Axis is already straightening up, because then all three movements, the rotation and the revolution of Earth plus the revolution of the Moon around Earth, will happen in one vibratory or Oscillation Plane which heavily increases the chances of interference and thus interaction. It's a kind of an overtone, which is created in harmony with the Base Tones of each movement of its own. If we learn to do this, there will be plenty of other planets and moons waiting for us. Ceres, Europa, planets in the Kuiper-belt and what not; yes indeed, an endless story.

The Fabric of Energy-Matter

The movement of the Earth Axis (CW) is decided by the electromagnetic Re-flow of Earth, that's why to the right (CW). And it is a highly probable guess that the Axis Tilting is as well being dominated by the magnetic flow: Meaning being for a long-time feedback-treated by its own falsified and distorted electromagnetic pulse is what brought in and manifested the tilting more and more over the centuries. I guess, by now everybody should have understood that our and all nature's DNA is heavily influenced by this field. So, if this field is squeezed, which it is, our DNA is squeezed as well.

And that is the reason for all this false and only half-true Fibonacci and Golden Mean, Flower of Life and Sacred Geometry nonsense! That is not the natural way life is unfolding, extending and creating. The Fibonacci Sequence is the distorted version of the Krystal Spiral (0,1,2,4,8,16,32,64, -). You call it the Geometric Sequence. Do these numbers seem familiar to you? Ah, yes, right, that's the same number sequence upon which computers and chips are working! It has something to do with Scalar Waves and their geometry: Contrary to the Fibonacci Sequence, which is self-consuming, meaning from the 7. position (Value 55) onward there is no real growth anymore. It stays at the Golden Mean =1,6! But the so-called Krystal Spiral stays open within, meaning it remains in contact with all its parts, from the Source to the Manifested, which gives it plasma-like, living and balancing properties. These Non-Matter Energies are moving and flowing according to the so-called Krystal Spiral (0,1,2,4,8,16,32,64, -) and not, like seemingly all Matter on Earth, according to the Fibonacci Sequence (1-1-2-3-5-8-13-21-34-55-) and what they call Sacred Geometry. I prefer to call this so-called Sacred Geometry and its Flower of Life 'La Fleur du Mal' or The Daisy of Death and Decay! The Krystal Spiral is more Anti Fragile, alive, more harmonically built, because it always remains in perfect balance of all its layers. Nothing is self-consuming like it is with the Fibonacci Sequence.

My hypothesis is that through the tilting, the bending of the Earth Axis the ways of the flow of Matter and the flow of Non-Matter-Matter have been slightly separated from each other and thus now not being harmonious and congruent and properly aligned to each other anymore. Meaning, if these two vibrations are in perfect balance, harmony and congruently phase-locked with each other, would be when Earth Axis is at a 90° angle, there is perfect harmony, life and resonance. The tilting of the Axis, however, will bring in a phenomenon like radio broadcasting which is not properly tuned to the frequency and wavelength and so it's not a clear signal. Like there is a kind of a filter or distortion.

To speculate further that could mean that not 100% of the Non-Matter Energy is coming in properly but instead is creating some kind of parallel or sub dimensions or sub states like Parallel Earth, Inner Earth, Shambala, Agartha, other Frequency Pockets or distorted dimensional fields at the poles or such. These places might even be 'in the same spot' but not perceivable and able to interact with each other because the matter, atoms, molecules and energies have a different Partiki Rotation Axis Angle! Maybe we could say that the tilting of the Earth Axis has made a kind of Frequency Prism (Prison?) out of our spinning Earth which prevents us, all beings here, to fully connect to our true full existing energetic potential and template.

With that explanation it would then be possible to even explain how atoms, particles and actual things could be in the exact same spot but in different dimensions and densities just because of different Partikum Partika Partiki Rotation Axis Angles. And if one wants to speculate even further, we could think about the physical consequences of the Axis tilting as what in our old myths is called The Fall! The falling out or apart with the Sacred Cosmic Harmony with consequences for all life, DNA, templates, beings, spirit, soul and body. Whatever might have caused that tilting and bending in the first place, we will find out as well; all together! Meaning as well, that to reverse The Fall, we simply learn to re-adjust and re-tune to the full harmony and are enlarging our band of frequency resonance with The All That Is, The Pure Essence aka Life Itself!

Like tuning in again into the scheme of preplasmatic, scalar sound hierarchy of the Galactic, Inner Galactic, Inter Galactic and Extra Galactic spheres, meaning Space, the knowledge of the Scalar Preplasma Base Tones of Life aka Magnetic-Gravitational Scalar Wave & Field. What I'm pretending is that the light of the stars, no matter how far away, is not light which is coming out of the past!

Because our current science is pretending that light is only able to travel at the speed of light, which might maybe be correct on Earth or Earth' atmosphere in a vacuum but not in space. Light is not travelling as light, as an electromagnetic wave, through space. It is riding on or better is tunneled through the Preplasmatic Scalar Waves Field through space. Space is not empty as we have believed for a long time. It is a huge Scalar Wave Field through which an infinite number of overtones and undertones are moving in almost Real-Time.

It's because of the Geometry of The Scalar Wave, that's the Clou: The scalar wave tunnels the light, the impulse of that light, through itself, along the geometry of the Krystal spiral (1,2,4,8,16,32,64) whereas this light gets tunneled nearly infinite times, which is giving it this incredible near Real-Time speed. Only after this light-impulse is touching Earth and Earth' atmosphere it will become and behave and move in the way of what we think light is and does.

Every Planet has its own Base Tone, every Solar System, every Galaxy, every individual human being, every being, every species, every individual, etc. My guess would be that all this is far below 20 Hz,

