

Abu Axis Mundi

by Stefan Sattler

By now it should have become obvious that we have not fully understood the one key attribute of Life and Life Itself: Freedom! And namely the fact that freedom is not the opposite of law, order and rules, but freedom is in fact a law. The Rule! Freedom is the law of which all other rules and laws have been derived of. All the laws we have created over hundreds of millennia were merely invented to make freedom possible and to let the process of (human) life flow smoothly because one could argue that the people are not fully conscious all the time and so these laws are helpful to enable freedom as best as possible.

So far so good. But the mistake we have made as a civilization is that we have forgotten that fact and thus we've failed to curtail our laws in such a way that it would eventually lead to fewer rules being needed, and not more. For the intention was, and still is, to aim for a culture where everybody is naturally fully conscious so that the concept of freedom and liberation is fully realized and thus almost no more external laws are needed because an ethical and truthful way to conduct life is fully internalized and practiced.

Now, in practical terms I do not advocate for abolishing all current laws. What I am advocating is to learn to curtail and re-write our laws in such a way that the use of these laws and the conduct of a people and civilization under these laws will eventually lead to the need for less and less laws. And one very key element towards this aim is that we revert our judicial doctrine from the principle of the law of dogma to the law of taboo. The concept of taboos is very much in harmony with the concept of the Law of Life Itself whereas dogmas simply are not. Dogmas are lethal poison to a culture, a nation, a people and a civilization!

Positivistic (Dogma-) Law means everything is forbidden except for it is explicitly allowed by law. That's the wrong way around. It's about the geometry of law. Positivistic Law is inverted Negativistic (Taboo-) Law. One says, all is forbidden except it is explicitly allowed, while the other one says, everything is allowed, except it is explicitly forbidden! One works with dogmas and the other one with taboos. One is toxic law, and one is healthy law. One is Law of Death, and one is Law of Life.

So, the living man stands before the constitution, which translates to the fact that not the law is sacred, but the integer intent to honor and abide by the just and transparently agreed law is sacred. That means that the most important and fundamental aspect of law and of what makes a given system and its laws work, is located completely outside of the realm of law. Only the intent, integrity and the will to understand each other, to cooperate and to honor agreements is what makes any set of rules into a beneficial and smoothly working process and thus is of primary importance.

That is the crucial point of our manifold problems here on Earth right now. The surprisingly primitive and archaic situation we are dealing with is not that it would be too complex and too difficult to find the right laws and to do the right thing for mankind to achieve a sustainable level of peace and freedom for all. Instead, the problem is that there are forces, people and entities who are simply not willing. Simply not willing to grant others the same basic sovereign rights to a free life and existence in self-rulership as they themselves are enjoying.

The quality and content of the laws is important, too, but only of secondary importance because if it is clear that The Living Man Stands Before The Constitution, meaning man is the sovereign and not the law is sovereign and that the law is derived of the sovereignty of man and not the other way around, then it is obvious that the form and the content of laws can be changed and adjusted to the carefully evaluated needs and wishes of the people. That's what sovereignty means.

So, I declare the following truth. At the basis of every culture and society in the history of mankind there is (or had to be) a social contract. A contract between and among the living people and not a contract with any god. That social contract is broken (or never existed at all) in our current world, and we need to fix it.

God doesn't need a contract with you. That's a silly idea of people who try to cheat Life Itself and their fellow mankind. And ultimately themselves, too. Or in other words, your life, your life-force and the living vibrating consciousness which is oscillating right now within and through your entire being, your spirit and through your very blood is the very contract that you have with that force of creation. No words, promises, symbols and seals, fine-print or privilege clauses are needed here. Everybody who is telling you otherwise is, either knowingly or probably more likely unwittingly, a traitor to you and to Life Itself.

That enables us to answer the question whether the Cosmos and Life Itself is working top-down or bottom-up. In a way all the craziness in our current world is in fact very easy to understand. What you all are complaining about, from money, politics, taxes, sovereignty, government, Big Tec, censorship, surveillance, Big Pharma, Great Reset, warmongering and all the rest of it is in fact always the same thing. You are complaining about the fundamental template and structure of all our ideas and systems of organizing communal, regional, national, state and all other common affairs, the commons. It is always built according to the well-known top-down structure.

And who has taught us this? Well, the answer is obvious. It is coming from our most basic assumption about reality and the very starting point of our fundamental identification and view of this cosmos, namely The God! The assumption is this all powerful, omnipotent and omnipresent The God; which is the greatest personification of the principle of top-down, is it not? All this notion, which is the most fundamental maxim of law in our Western construct of law, that he is The Creator and that he owns everything, every life and every soul including you and everybody else, is the clearest and most profound expression of a top-down structure.

But truth is, this whole creation does exist and has come into existence precisely because that force of creation is not the least bit interested in exclusive ownership but in cooperation and in sharing that overflowing wealth of the spark of Life Itself. So, the idea of top down is not coming from Life Itself but from small-minded and simply misguided men and entities.

Are you able to follow that thought through? If the most basic template of mankind's perception of reality is completely upside down, then it is no wonder that everything in this world is upside down and that it is such a mess. So, the problem in today's world is that everything is top-down structured and that is because we believed that this force of creation which we call God is structured and has structured all creation according to the top-down principle, when in fact it is structured bottom-up. To be really precise it's in fact structured inside-out. Meaning mankind should learn to perceive this force of creation as bottom-up and subsequently organize our societies, states, communities and peoples according to the bottom-up principle. In order to do this, we've got to grasp the deeper architecture of our civilizational Operating System: Rights and Laws.

*Rights are what we assume, and legal bankruptcy is the inability of a legal system to provide justice to those subject to the law. An institution, especially a legal institution, reveals legal bankruptcy if, for example, it allows liars to reach the top, makes smugglers into secretaries, fraudsters into cashiers, forgers into minute takers, impostors into assessors and blackmailers into legal supervisors. Under such circumstances, only a return to generally recognized values such as truth and freedom and legal principles such as pacta sunt servanta, prohibition of arbitrariness, competition, etc. can promise improvement. #GerhardKörblerDictionaryOfLaw*

That means that rights and laws in actual reality do not exist. They are assumptions, presuppositions, fiction. Lawful definition of fiction: Fiction is that dictate of justice that describes a non-existing fact as an existing one!

On that basis our current law in the world is practiced. The sum total of those dictates of justice is forming what is called the Canon of Law. Now we have established the fact and confirmed as practiced and valid law that our rights and laws are not coming from The God but from assumptions that have been developed and have been implemented by man over the course of our history. And yes, including the sometimes open but very often hidden and obscured intermingling of other ancestors and entities.

What is indeed coming from God are claims; in the sense of life-sustaining necessities. But here it is very important to carefully distinguish and be conscious about the situational reality one is in when using the word god because there are two separate realms which are penetrated via the use of the projection power and meaning of this word: God.

To use this word carefully and conscious of its meaning, in the social realm and in human society is pretty ok, for that word is simply hinting at that what is indeed and actually real but outside of or beyond the human realm and knowing. And it is forever impossible to entangle that Absolute onto a 100% defining word, symbol, seal, object or sound. That's why we have this and similar words in the first place. To hint at something which is not a creation and a consequence of man but absolute in and of itself! That means that it is appropriate to use that word carefully and conscious of the boundaries of its meaning in human society. In the absolute sense, in the presence of that what was called God before, that word becomes not only utterly useless but outright false and misleading in its meaning. The moment you've started to make contact you need a different word or even better an entirely different language because your relationship and your position towards and within the absolute has profoundly changed, so that its old meaning can be of no further use anymore in deepening that relationship and in bringing it to full flowering.

Having said that, we can now go on and see what the difference between claims and rights is using the word god in this social context without any further confusion for our discussion. It looks like we have another one of mankind's famous Logical Syntax Errors here. We are misunderstanding claims and rights; we are confounding one for the other. We are constantly confusing cause and effect for each other. From the tiniest and from the most mundane to the greatest and most sacred things in life.

That which is God-given, immanent and born-in into every human and other being are claims – in the sense of life-sustaining necessities - and not rights. The rights are the consequences that we as cultures have established in the awareness of these claims, without the recognition and enabling of which no culture and civilization would be possible. And just for the record: Your claims are going to be denied if you are denying the claims of others without any serious valid reason!

And a very similar confusion has happened with the confusion of sympathy and empathy. Hence, we've got to understand the fundamental difference between sympathy and empathy. In the social realm both are valuable whereas in the spiritual realm man goes by empathy while sympathy is not only worthless but in fact a fierce and dangerous obstacle. The difference between sympathy and empathy, as most people assume, is not one of mere quantity (Sympathy is just exponentially stronger empathy! or: Love is just a more of empathy!) but of a substantially different quality and nature.

The antipathy-empathy-sympathy-apathy-complex, and with-it individuality and individuation as part and intent of creation, is completely misunderstood by the current mankind. And empathy is more than enough to not commit any crime, violence or evil. The truth is that sympathy is not only not needed and not helpful in avoiding evil, but it is in fact, as I and others have found out after close inspection, very often the case that mis-understood and mis-guided sympathy plays a huge part for itself in almost all situations of so-called sin.

Hence, I urge you all to recognize that these forever wars are the logical consequence of unfulfilled forever prophecies! Surely, you all have heard of the notion that nowadays the wars fought by the Empire of Chaos shall not even be won anymore. The goal is not to win them but to have these absolute civilization-collapsing forever wars which are just draining the entire world and are pulling mankind down into the black hole of nihilism, decay and annihilation.

And sure, they think they are going to profit from all this war and from this, that or the other opportunity that arises through all these carefully crafted chaotic circumstances, but that is not what I want to focus on and not what I am talking about here.

Instead, let me observe to you the fact that the same mechanism is at play when it comes to all those messianic, biblical, eschatological, religious salvation prophecies and end-time-rapture-narratives. The trick is that they were never meant to be fulfilled but instead they shall send all faithful believers onto a never-ending hail-expecting trip that shall and will never be fulfilled because it was a lie from the very get-go. It will keep you locked inside a mental hallucinatory prison and will fulfill the true purpose of this sinister manipulation by making sure that you will stay totally confused for your whole life on the most profound and fundamental levels of cognition, perception and the use of your own immanent conscious sacred will and intent. It keeps you busy and occupied with a vision which is fiction. And this will make sure you cannot do what you are supposed to do with your life as a free, sovereign man. Namely, to go on the real vision, path and seeking for truth, liberation, freedom, Life Itself, enlightenment, realization, spiritual fulfillment, ascension and the mastery of consciousness.

Mankind, you are still going by the Doctrine of Discovery!

Officially we are saying that the so-called Doctrine of Discovery is null and void today and we are shamelessly celebrating us for that oh-so-great civilizational triumph. I won't go into all the legal and lawful nitty-gritty here, the documents, the phrasing, dates, the entities involved, and the question whether they had any authority over that subject matter in the first place or not, but fact is that this doctrine and its template of The winner takes it all, cause that's basically all this doctrine says, is still the most basic and most applied template of conducting life, business, science, politics, law and lawfare, finance, arts and music, education, research, religion, philosophy and everything else that matters in human society. When I look at our human endeavors all I can see is patents, copyrights, claims of ownership, claims of inheritance, superiority and privileges and always the attempts, including lies, theft, black-mailing and so on, to establish the claim of the fact that one has been the first in achieving and realizing whatever. A new technical breakthrough, a new medication, a new territory, a weapon, a new method or procedure of something, a new scientific discovery and then claim, copyright and own it. And make sure that everybody else must pay tribute, tax, customs, patent fees, usufruct and such. In a sense, that's the equivalent to the ancient Bending the knee.

Now, let me observe to you the paradox and confusing fact that when we look at what is really actually happening in everyday life we see that everything is ruled according to The Doctrine of Discovery, but at the same time when I look very deeply into the essence and root of all the current laws of mankind, the papers, the words, the documents, the assumptions, the cornerstone, it is all derived in the very end from the assumption and dogma that god is the exclusive owner of everything. Meaning real, actual owning isn't something for man and mankind at all. That's what it says, without explicitly saying it. Funny, we are proclaiming and intellectualizing one way, but we are acting 180° the exact opposite in actual everyday real life.

Well, here is the very simple solution for mankind's legal and lawful and spiritual disaster. Let's stop declaring ourselves and each other literally and legally binding as (dead) persons and thus stop treating ourselves and each other as dead things, aka as (legal) person. Inanimate dead and unconscious slave beings. Lost at The High Seas, died the Civilian Death. And no Intestate Dead Baby Estates or Dead Baby Scam either.

You obviously don't get it, that all my claims, and the same applies to all men and women, are not coming from any piece of paper, any contract made by people centuries ago. Any contract I haven't made or agreed to by myself, or which has been inherited but is based on deception and fraud. is null and void. Contracts are derived from Life Itself and that Life Itself is Now Present Here! That's what most of you would call God. No need to go back millennia and quote that what somebody else thought about what somebody else thinks about what someone else believes about that thing called The Living Reality or God. That is childish. You and everybody else don't know shit about a dead man's perspective. But that's all you are doing. Quoting what the Forefathers thought, quoting what this so-called Jesus thought, quoting what the Romans thought, what the Ancient Greeks thought, quoting what the Phoenicians thought and so on. But that's not the way Life, Life Itself and Living Law work.

You are all interested in power versus I am interested in authority. Real, actual living authority. You know the difference? Power is always granted by someone or something and thus can always be taken away again for it's not genuine, whereas authority is derived from within the living being and is granted by Life Itself. You want to organize a society under the power and rule of what you believe to be the Word of God whereas I want to create a human society of free, conscious, self-ruling living beings, who can, should and will communicate and interact with The Force for themselves without any intermediary. No Pope, no Jesus, no Mother Marry, no Buddha, no Muhammed, no Shiva and not you or me as well. Free, sovereign and self-conscious. So, go and change the UN Charter and with it all the constitutions around the world and add just one sentence: The Civilian Death or German, Der Bürgerliche Tod, the legal and lawful status of Lost at The High Seas doesn't exist, doesn't apply, doesn't take place and never has and never will, including all the tremendous legal and lawful consequences.

It's just that we have to make sure to get rid of this one thing: The Lie – The Cardinal of all Sins!

Think of it this way. All the so-called sins need one sin as kind of a prerequisite. This is like the Cardinal Sin of all, for without that one the other sins wouldn't be committed. That's the lie and deception. Without the option of lying, either to oneself or others, the other sins wouldn't work out. At least 99% of them, which is fairly a great percentage for a start. So, let's get rid of the cultural acceptance of lying of the current mankind and we'll see unbelievable changes for the better sweeping around the earth in no time. Let's live according to the maxim of You shall not lie! For the record, the term lie includes actions like deception, omission, half-truth, false framing, undisclosed clauses and things of that sort. You simply should not lie, never. Not about others and not to others and not even to yourself. That's in fact where all the evil always starts. Nobody would steal and rape, kill and plunder and deceive and secretly start wars or go after the wife of another man if he would adhere to the rule of not lying. It is obvious, isn't it?

Now, we partly have some kind of laws that will punish you for lying. But only in very specific cases and not on a general basis. For example, if you lie in court and they are going to catch you, you will be punished. Although mostly the punishment is ridiculous compared to the damage done by it to all the rest of society. They can all lie without any serious consequences for themselves but with tremendously dire and bad consequences for the people, the earth and society at large. In fact, the lie has eaten itself to such deep levels into our societies that we have reached a point where the courts, attorneys and judges are liars themselves. The sad but logical consequence of many centuries of tolerated lying. Think about it! How could one ever expect a sane and peaceful world like that?

Now, the funny thing is this. If I talked to you, all 8 billion, on a one-to-one basis, you would all say that it is the others and that you are part of the good ones because you are a believer in God. Can you see the sad and paradox irony here? It's always the others. But imagine I talked to all 8 billion and everybody is saying, it's the others. Then let me ask you. Who are the others, if not you yourself?

And here we are coming full circle now. As I've said before, the mistake is that you start with an assumption, make this assumption into a belief and then a dogma and are now observing everything through that falsifying dogma. Your belief in a god that you don't know, never met and just have been indoctrinated with for nefarious purposes. It is this vicious cycle that is the root cause of all systemic evil here on earth.

I believe in God. God is good and thus, because I believe in God and am thus a part of him, I am per definition the good one which leaves only one option left for the other one: He must be the bad and evil one! Dang! Trapped in a death spiral. We could call that spiritual vanity or the Religious Dunning-Kruger-Effect.

You all know this saying: The system did not fail but it is doing exactly what it was designed for! Well, the same is true here. The religions, the churches, the Vatican and their doctrines, claims and messengers haven't been corrupted, infiltrated, misinterpreted and been taken over. No, they are doing exactly what they were invented for. Let me explain to you the intent behind inventing a dogmatic, codified, all-encompassing, omnipresent and omnipotent God. By implanting the fictitious idea of The God into your deepest inner core, your soul, the energetic blueprint of yourself, the Satt-Va as it is called in Sanskrit, you are per definition denied ownership of the only thing you should ever own: Your own Self!

See, man is running around like crazy for millennia, trying to claim and to own everything. From the Earth to gold, slaves and women to genomes, water, air, patents, ideas, even frequencies, the souls of the living and the dead, and much more. But we never find satisfaction and always remain hungry for more, because all these things will never fulfill our true and natural longing. Namely, to be in possession of and to own ourselves! But unfortunately, all the really good things in life are only possible if you own yourself. To love, to be mindful and conscious, to give and invest yourself in a greater cause, to marvel, to grow and learn, to be creative and to recognize and realize Life Itself. Spiritual growth, responsibility, free will, devotion and much more are only true, authentic and valuable once you have begun to accept the only real challenge in life: Facing yourself and taking responsibility for and ownership of yourself.

Now, the funny, or rather tragic, thing is this. When you take this absolutely natural step and stand up and publicly declare ownership of yourself, including all the consequences, centuries and millennia of dogma, mind-control and brainwashing have ensured that all the other slaves – your fellow mankind - will rise up, scream blue murder, curse you with brimstone and hell and declare you being evil. And like this it is very easy to control the masses. You just have to have control and ownership of the copyright and franchise rights to this god and to the narrative that comes with it, et voilà, you are deep in the deepest emotional, mental, energetic and existential layers of individual human beings and the entire mankind, and you can mess with them and manipulate them in every crazy, bloody and despicable way imaginable.

I really wonder: How can you not come to the only logical and possible conclusion, namely, to recognize that the only reason for all the lies of modern civilization being possible and to explain it in a sufficiently logical way is to see that there must be one big fat lie. A distortion of the most basic truth that has infected all of mankind. Look as closely as you wish and I guarantee you, the only thing you can and will find, that fits the description, is that the god story is false! Told in the most dangerously, 180° falsified way. This "First Cause" is not and cannot be exclusively outside of oneself, and it is not and cannot be a being, although it is for sure alive and conscious. But not a being (entity), not exclusively outside of oneself – and as well not exclusively within oneself - and thus available to everyone to the same easy or difficult degree. But all your religions tell you otherwise. For sure, because without that twist they could not build a dogmatic slave system upon that assumption.

See, we are living in a time where many people observe that many things are upside down. As a consequence, what many of you believe is that you think you have to go back in time and search for better solutions offered by the past and eventually you all end up thinking: Oh, yeah, now I got it. We have forgotten all that what is righteous, good, true, honest, integer, sacred and in short, yes, now I can see it clearly, we have forgotten God and our respective religions! And it all seemingly adds up in your imagination, and you think now you fully understand what is wrong with the world and what is the root cause of all the lying, cheating, enslaving, censoring, warmongering, semantic deceit, governmental overreach, manipulation and mind control, neo-feudalism and financial tyranny. Now, you are dead sure. We have forgotten God, and we only need to go back to God, repent and bow down and renew the old contract with the god of our ancestors and all will be good and as it has been foretold. And the lamb and the lion are hanging out together as best buddies.

And yes, there is indeed a certain logic to that musing. But every logic rests on certain assumptions. If the assumptions turn out to have been false - or not adequate and appropriate anymore - then immediately this logic inverts and turns out to have been a limited and thus dangerously wrong logic. The assumption here in our case is, that we have not had enough of this god, religion, striving for holiness, praying, repenting, giving thanks and praises, drawing Jesus and other angelic and divine beings and energies into our heart and soul, inviting the holy spirit to invade our third eye and to take us over and possess us and all the rest of the millions of religious obligations.

Hm, let's zoom out of this picture a little bit and try to look at mankind and its history for let's say the last few thousand years. See, how the religions and the corresponding ideas got absolutely everything in support, which any idea, religion, movement, philosophy, narrative, cosmology, revelation, truth or discovery could only ever dream of. So, what makes you think that a more of the old solution, the one that already got thousands of years to prove its oh-so-glorious-greatness-and-holiness, and which got all the support and head-start one could ever wish for, would bring the desired result of peace, freedom, happiness and sovereignty for all!? Maybe you had better start looking at the possibility that there might be something fishy with that very religious idea that you all think is the solution. Haven't you all heard and understood the famous - alleged - Einstein quote about the definition of insanity being to repeatedly try the same solution but expect a different result? Maybe it's high times for you to dare to start looking at reality in a more humble and truthful way instead of clinging to your old narratives and false paradigms, your old never-delivering saviors and at your oh so omnipotent and omnipresent but never-the-less totally indifferent gods?!

Well, the very crux of all of this is the following. Let's assume there is a certain conspiracy, a fraud, a cabal, very old and in whatever morphing and ever-changing structure. An ancient striving for power and control by extremely dishonest and deceptive means. And as a very simplified generalization of the aim of this we could say that those instigators are trying to take away what is yours. Your property, rights, heritage, your soul, destiny, genetics, sovereignty and everything else.

What they need for such an endeavor is your acquiescence of the fact that you shall be completely disowned but they shall not. I don't want to go into the nitty-gritty of the genesis of law here, but as is well-known, every contract, law and legal procedure requires acquiescence to be acknowledged as righteous, honorable, integer and overall truth-and-life-endorsing and good. The problem that many people have when faced with the question of whether there might indeed be such an almost all-encompassing conspiracy taking place, although they might not be conscious about the above-mentioned fact of judiciary doctrine, that fraud requires acquiescence, is that in their guts, they all know this.

Roman Law Doctrine: Let those who are deceived be deceived!

And that's exactly what is causing this so-called cognitive dissonance. The refusal to deal with certain parts of reality because it is feared to be too painful. Your emotional, unconscious rejection and refusal to integrate your responsibility in the whole game, because it would be considered to be too hard to deal with it, is what is causing most people to deny and refuse, often vehemently, to consider the possibility of such a conspiracy and such a great fraud might be real and actually happening. And surprisingly, not only the people who refuse to deal with the possibility of a conspiracy but also many of the people who are already convinced that a lot of conspiracy-stuff is happening still do not understand where they themselves are still paying their respect, belief and acquiescence to the lie and thus are themselves still enabling the so-called conspiracy.

Allow me to help you out. The trick is that this question for searching for the point where you are giving your acquiescence to being dis-owned is not there as one point or as one deal, event or decision but it is split into two separate events. The first decision is that you agree to be dis-owned completely, and the second part is that they are making sure that their claim stays valid and thus they can suck it all up. By splitting the events into two they are managing to slip under the radar what is happening because of emotional confusion.

Understand that you are indeed all giving your acquiescence to being dis-owned of everything, and now you might start to understand what role the religions always have to play and always have done. That's why they were invented in the first place, to confirm the most basic and foundational doctrine of all current religions and law that this The Creator God owns everything, and he owns you too, completely.

But I say, if you don't own yourself, obviously it is impossible for you to own anything!

You can go and study these ecclesiastical and theological matters as long as you want and what you will find is nothing else but that all Western Law is based on this most profound but false doctrine of law. That's where they are getting their proclaimed but false authority from. Without that they have none!

Sure, you will probably say things like, 'Oh, my faith has nothing to do with actual law and state and citizenship and real life today politics, political status and such, that's Stefan-Nonsense'.

Well, it's precisely because you think of this matter being such a private and almost innocent matter that you would never come to even hypothetically connect these sacred and religious affairs with the legal and political status of immense hardcore real-life consequences. That's precisely the trick. You are not expecting this kind of sinister assault here. That's why your intellectual and spiritual defense was down and not because you might be too stupid. No, you are not, if you want to hear me saying this. Yes, in a sense you've been too naïve and too innocent to expect such a toxic assault on your very life.

The trick is that the emotional-energetical reaction has already happened via the dis-owning-conversion of you, although it is very probably unconscious to you and for sure, it wasn't done in good will and good faith and not in full open and honest disclosure, so that every time you ponder about justice and about why everything is so screwed up in the world you eventually end up at the same point: 'Ah, yeah, it's the religious thing; the guilt, the god, the salvation, the evil, the prophecies, we have to wait till the book is fulfilled and then the superstar with long hair will come and make everybody high and the lamb and the lion will hang out together and so, we all have to stay humble and accept and endure the suffering and go to church - which in actual truth is the very hidden other hand in this conspiracy of evil.'

So, here comes part two of the game plan. Because God is not here, per official catholic (translates to universal) religious doctrine, he's on a prolonged vacation, and so they, the Holy Mother Catholic Church got the job. You know, they got it via The Rock! Peter got the key, yeah, the triple key to all the heavens (Jurisdictions that is!). And the Christ is obviously not here either – allegedly you all are waiting for his return - but through Peter the job has fallen to the church and isn't it obvious that Mother Church is the best equipped to be God's deputy-replacement here on earth?! So, god's not here, Church is the best and knows shit better than everybody and thus Church is the boss and takes over all god-ownership-rights but Church gives a damned shit about anything only remotely close to what deserves to be called sacred, but still pretends hardcore all this god-ownership-rights to be observed and important for not going to hell or burning at the stake or getting suicided by the CIA or sodomized by Hillary for that matter, and is collecting as much as it can get, and the moment you are speaking up against that Perpetuum Mobile of Evil you will be deemed evil and the Antichrist!

In a way, I have to admit, from storyteller to storyteller: Clever! Indeed, a clever plot. The moment you are seeing it through and start telling the people you have unwittingly started to fulfill their own self-insuring false prophecy of being the prophesied evil, aka The Antichrist. Clever, but never-the-less a shitty story. In fact, the crudest, most primitive, disgusting and pathetic story I have ever heard. The core message here is that I say that this action has been split into two because you all are by far not dumb enough that if someone came and asked you to give away all your property and all your claims you all would for sure reject but when you've already declared to freely give everything away to God, then the step to make sure that it will end up in the thieves' pockets is not that difficult anymore. Especially because your so-called Bullshit-sensor is closed off already via that sinister religious soul-treaty. Remember, you've already signed away everything to this god.

So, I say: No! The strongest word and the most profound yes. Remember, it's even asked in your bible, something along the lines: And you just say one word, this one word and you shall be absolutely free and unbound! Well, this word is not any name of whatsoever messenger, entity, demon, God or whatnot. It's not any spell or mantra nor any Abra Kadabra or something like that. No! No, this is the word. It's that simple and straight forward. Because no is the strongest yes one can give. The strongest and clearest verbal, linguistic expression of intent. That's the seemingly paradox secret here. Without the possibility of no, no meaningful yes could ever exist. And vice versa, for sure. Without the option of a conscious yes one couldn't know what no is.

So, now I'm saying no, I am not subject to Rome and/or to any branch of The Abrahamic Cult nor to the Anglo-Papal-Zionist One World Order Cult - Non Habemus Papam!
